Bar graph shows percentage of all student respondents who chose each category as their current career choice. Bars in dark blue represent research careers; bars in light blue represent non-research careers.

When students were asked to rate their confidence in their current career choice, 54.9% of all respondents reported the lowest level of confidence, “I am still considering a range of options.” 29.3% of all respondents reported “I am fairly confident in this career choice.” Only 15.8% of all respondents reported “I am very confident in this career choice.” Confidence in career choice depended on stage of graduate training, as shown in this graph.
